NVvME Supports AMSC Amsterdam 2027

The Nederlandse Vereniging voor Medische Esthetiek (NVvME) is pleased to support AMSC Amsterdam 2027, an international platform bringing together professionals across aesthetic medicine, dermatology, and surgery.

As a professional association representing doctors and dentists working in medical aesthetics, NVvME is committed to advancing the quality, expertise, ethical standards, and professional development of the field. We believe that education, scientific research, evidence-based practice, and knowledge sharing are essential to ensuring safe and responsible aesthetic care.

AMSC Amsterdam 2027 provides an excellent opportunity to strengthen these principles by bringing together leading international experts and professionals to exchange knowledge, share clinical experience, and explore the latest developments in aesthetic medicine and surgery.

For the Dutch medical-aesthetic community, hosting an international congress in Amsterdam creates an important opportunity to strengthen professional networks, encourage cross-border collaboration, promote scientific exchange, and further elevate standards of care. It also provides a valuable platform for Dutch physicians and dentists to engage with colleagues from Europe and beyond.

We particularly welcome the focus on education, innovation, safety, and clinical excellence. By connecting experienced practitioners with emerging knowledge and technologies, AMSC Amsterdam 2027 can contribute to the continued professionalisation of medical aesthetics and support practitioners in delivering safe, honest, and expert care to their patients.

We believe that strong collaboration between professional associations and the international aesthetic medicine community is essential to building a future where quality, trust, ethics, and patient care remain at the heart of aesthetic medicine.

NVvME is proud to support AMSC Amsterdam 2027 and looks forward to contributing to a meaningful international gathering that will inspire collaboration, advance knowledge, and strengthen the future of medical aesthetics.

NVCG Support for AMSC Amsterdam 2027

The NVCG – Nederlandse Vereniging Cosmetische Geneeskunde is pleased to support AMSC Amsterdam 2027, an international gathering dedicated to advancing aesthetic medicine, dermatology, and surgery.

As the professional association representing aesthetic physicians in the Netherlands, the NVCG is committed to promoting quality, education, knowledge sharing, research, professional development, and the highest standards of patient care within aesthetic medicine. We believe that meaningful collaboration between national professional associations and the international medical community is essential to the continued development of our specialty.

AMSC Amsterdam 2027 presents an important opportunity to bring together leading physicians, researchers, educators, and industry partners from across Europe and beyond. By creating a platform for the exchange of scientific knowledge, clinical experience, and emerging innovations, the event can contribute significantly to the advancement of safe, ethical, and evidence-based aesthetic medicine.

For the Dutch aesthetic medicine community, the conference offers valuable opportunities to connect with international experts, share best practices, explore new scientific developments, and strengthen professional networks. It also provides an opportunity to showcase the expertise and growing role of aesthetic medicine in the Netherlands within the wider European and global community.

We particularly value the emphasis on education and professional development. High-quality scientific programmes, expert-led discussions, and practical learning opportunities can support physicians in continuously developing their knowledge and clinical skills. Such initiatives align closely with the NVCG's commitment to maintaining and raising professional standards within aesthetic medicine.

Beyond education, AMSC Amsterdam 2027 can help foster stronger collaboration between professional associations, academic institutions, clinicians, researchers, and other stakeholders. These connections have the potential to encourage future research, cross-border initiatives, and continued knowledge exchange that extend well beyond the conference itself.

We believe that bringing an international aesthetic medicine congress to Amsterdam will also contribute positively to the visibility and development of the local aesthetic medicine sector. It creates an opportunity for Amsterdam to serve as a meeting point for professionals from different countries and disciplines, encouraging dialogue and collaboration within a rapidly evolving field.

The NVCG is therefore pleased to support AMSC Amsterdam 2027 and its vision of creating a truly international platform for aesthetic medicine, dermatology, and surgery. We look forward to welcoming colleagues from the Netherlands, Europe, and around the world to Amsterdam and to contributing to a stronger, more connected, and forward-thinking aesthetic medicine community.

Together, through education, collaboration, and the sharing of knowledge, we can continue to strengthen the quality, safety, and professional development of aesthetic medicine.
